PREFACE.

THE totally unexpected delay which has taken place in the completion of the General Index to my Bibliography has, combined with the successive dispersion of numerous collections of books during the last two or three years, and my habitual practice of registering every item hitherto undescribed or imperfectly so, to produce a further Appendix to what I fully believed at the time to be a final issue of titles on the sectional principle.

It might be supposed to be quite possible to hold over such new material until an opportunity arose for incorporating it with a consolidated alphabet. But as that is a distant contingency, and the labour of acquiring these entries from an infinite variety of sources is so arduous, and the likelihood of the recurrence of the articles more or less slender, the risk of the destruction of my MSS. records is more than I care to encounter; while every title preserved in type is a gain and a relief.

Since the First Supplement appeared in 1889, I have had under my eyes the large and important libraries of Sir Edward Sullivan, Mr. F. W. Cosens, Mr. Crawford of Cork, and Mr. Hailstone, besides numerous minor sales and an assortment of scarce books, tracts, and broadsides, obligingly lent to me by the always friendly booksellers. But the bulk of my acquisitions is necessarily derived from the incessant stores on view from season to season at the rooms of Messrs. Sotheby, Wilkinson, and Hodge.

I wish it were in my power to speak as favourably of some private possessors of rare or unique volumes in early English literature. I have not been exceptionally unfortunate in this respect; but in one or two instances where a so-called nobleman or gentleman is the owner of the only known copy of an ancient printed work, I have found it impracticable to prevail upon him to let me see it even for a few minutes under inspection by himself or his deputy.

The Right Honourable the Earl of Dysart refused to allow me to take a note of his unique copy of the Pastime of Pleasure, printed by Wynkyn de Worde in 1509, because, his secretary wrote to me, the library was in a chaotic state. This patrician did not, or could not, see that it was a disgrace to him to keep his books in a chaotic state; but from collateral information I infer that the statement was false. Such men do not deserve to be entrusted with the possession of unique works, and I should like to be able to pass an Act of Parliament compelling them to surrender them to the country at a fair valuation. The Right Honourable the Earl of Dysart has it in his power to refuse access to literary monuments and records, which he is too ignorant to understand. His lordship does not probably know what Bibliography signifies; his noble mind cannot rise to the conception of a national undertaking. It is more in sympathy with barbed wire.

Sm. 8°, A—G 10 in twelves. B. M. and Bodl.

On G 2 occurs a headline : "An other defence of womens vertues, written by an Honourable personage, of great reckoning in Fraunce, and therefore thought meete to be ioyned with the former discourse."

The whole volume is dedicated "To the Right Honorable Lady, Elizabeth, Countesse of South-hampton," by Gibson, to whose pen we are perhaps to attribute the sonnet to the same lady which follows ; next occurs an epistle, also subscribed by Anthony Gibson : "To the worthy Ladyes, and vertuous Maydes of Honor, to her royal Maiesty : Mistresse Anne Russell, Mistresse Margaret Ratcliffe, Mistresse Mary Fitten, and the rest, &c. ;" which epistle is followed by three sonnets, presumably by Gibson, to the three ladies just mentioned, after which is a short address in prose "To all the Honorable Ladies, and Gentlewomen of England," subscribed Anonimus, and a Preface to the Reader.

Gibson states in the Dedication to Lady Southampton that the translator was "a friend and fellow seruant with me to her Maiesty," and as this description, and the motto, Patere aut abstine, on the title, equally answer to Anthony Munday, it is likely that he was the person intended.

HERVIE, ROBERT.

An health in a cup of wyne: wherin is described the soueraingctye and Tyrannye of all kynde of wynes: drunk to Sr Sedlye late Bacchelr of art in ioy of his degree in Learning. 1611–12. Sm. 8°, 44 leaves. Dedicated to the Lady Abergavenny, to whom the writer wishes health and happiness.

The dedication is dated March 12, 1611, and Hervie or Hervey speaks of having been entertained the preceding Christmas at her ladyship's with thousands of other people. He was probably a college friend of Sir Sedley, the only son of Lord and Lady Abergavenny, of whom the former, Edward Nevill, had been confirmed in 1604 in the Barony. Lord Abergavenny's son was called Henry; why he is styled Sir Sedley, I do not know, as it was formerly usual for graduates to be dubbed Sir, but with their surname, as Sir Nevill, Sir Hearne.

This MS. was in Lilly's Catalogue for 1866, p. 102, and had at that time inside the old vellum cover: "Thomas Martin (of Palgrave) me tenet:" but it has since been rebound, and the interesting provenance has been lost.

PIZACHARUS, BAPTISTA.

Oratio ad Romanos per Baptistam Pizacharvm in Electione Pontificis. [Col.] Ex officina Richardi Pynsonis / nonis Septembris. Cum priuilegio a rege indulto. 4°, A—B in fours, B 4 blank: c—d in fours, Pynson's full-page device occupying D 4 verso.

The Oratio ends on B 3 verso; on c 1 commences a series of epigrams and epitaphs, the first being Ad auditorem. Others are addressed to Henry VIII., Catherine of Arragon, Our Lady of Barking, Our Lady of Walsingham, Thomas More, John Blunt, &c. The epitaphs are on William Griffith of Oxford, Nicholas Langdon, Baker, the Byrds, William Rose, Latimer, and the writer's relations, Roger and Isabella Constable, his brother Richard, and his sister Martha.

On D 4 recto occurs: Cviq; in Epigrammata Typographi Thomæ Bercvlæ Epistola, in which the Vulgaria of Horman (1519) and the Epigrams of John Constable (1520) are mentioned. The woodcut initials on A 2 and D 4 appear to be of the same character.

This volume, of which I never saw any copy except that before me, obtained from an old library in Devonshire, appears to have been published before the divorce of Catherine of Arragon and subsequently to 1520. The title-page refers to the election of Adrian VI., 1522.

From the heading to the Epistle at the end we might infer that the Epigrams, &c., were by Pynson himself, yet a perusal of the Epistle, taken with the poems on the Constables on the preceding page, almost justify us in concluding that the author was John Constable, who published in 1520 a volume of Epigrams attributed to the press of Pynson, an unique copy of which is in the Bodleian.

CERVANTES, MIGUEL.

[Part I. First Edition :] The / History / of / the valorovs / and wittie / Knight-Errant, / Don Qvixote / of the Mancha. / Translated out of the Spanish. / (a woodcut ornament of which the middle portion is a crowned rose.) London / Printed by William Stansby, for Ed. Blount and / W. Barret. 1612. 4°.

This is a letterpress title. I incline to think that the engraved title (which, like the letterpress title of Vol. II., was printed for Ed. Blounte only) was not issued till 1620.

Twelve preliminary leaves (including title) bearing signatures, ¶ in four and A in eight leaves. Text, pp. 1–594, followed by 4 pp. unnumbered. Every page is enclosed within lines completely framing the letterpress. In the inner part of the headlines throughout the book the words PART 1, PART 2, PART 3, PART 4 are printed in capitals.

[Part I. Second edition :] The / History of / Don-Qvichote / The first parte / Printed for Ed. Blovnt. 4°. The title is engraved. Eleven preliminary leaves: ¶ 2, 3, 4 and A eight leaves. Text, pp. 1–572; followed by 4 unnumbered pages.

Only the headlines are enclosed within rulings; the remainder of the pages is open. The words LIB. 1, LIB. 2, LIB. 3, LIB. 4 occupy the same places as Part 1, &c., in the first edition.

On page A 2 preliminary in both editions we find the words (in the translation of Cervantes' Address to the Reader): "I will both fill up the margent, and also spend foure or five sheetes of aduantage at the end of the Booke." After the words margins in the original, the sentence goes on thus, "y de gastar cuatro pliegos en el fin de el libro." Consequently in the translation the words "of advantage" are clearly traceable to an intermediate French version, in which the words must have been quatre ou cinq feuilles davantage (four or five leaves more). Shelton translated literally the word davantage, which exists in its peculiar sense only in French, and has no congener in Spanish or in Italian. The curious point is that no French translation is known to have been printed so early as 1612. César Oudin's first part did not appear till 1616. Shelton may have had the use of the manuscript.

ORDERS.

The Twenty five Orders of Honest Men. 1564.

This was intended, doubtless, as a sequel to the xxv. Orders of Fools, and appears from an Elizabethan record published by Brayley (Londiniana, iv. 314) to have actually passed the press; for that authority furnishes the following extract: "Iteme, for Printing the xxv. Orders of Honest Men. xxd." The production was evidently a broadside.

PEELE, JAMES.

[The Device of the Pageant borne before Sir Christopher Draper, Ironmonger, at his initiation into the Mayoralty, 29 October, 1566. At the cost of the Worshipful Company of Ironmongers. By James Peele.]

No printed copy of this work is known ; but it appears that Peele or Pele received 30s. for it, and whereas he also supplied the Company with seven pairs of gloves for the children in the show at 6d. a pair, he may have been of the Glovers' Company. There is very little doubt that he was the father of the dramatist, who received from him his literary bent.

Like that of 1590, this pageant may hereafter be found. That it was printed is established by the following entry in the Ironmongers' books :

"Paide to the prynter for printing poses, speeches, and songs, that were spoken and songe by the children of ye pagent . . . vs."

Whence we are entitled to infer that the tract was, in the same way as the Fishmongers' above referred to, privately printed for the Company, and perhaps only a few struck off.

Impresse per Willelmum Caxton / et diligenter emendate per Petrum Cāmelianū Poetaꝫ Laureatum / in Westmonasterio. [1483.] 4°, A—C in eights, A 1 blank. B. M.

This tract refers to the quarrel between Sixtus IV. and the Venetians in respect to the proceedings of the latter in the Dukedom of Ferrara. The present copy, the only one at present known, was found in a volume with other pieces some years ago, belonging to the private library of the Hecht-Heme family.

A SELECT LIST

OF

Works or Editions

BY

WILLIAM CAREW HAZLITT

OF THE INNER TEMPLE

CHRONOLOGICALLY ARRANGED

1860—1891.

1. History of the Venetian Republic; Its Rise, its Greatness, and its Civilisation. With Maps and Illustrations. 4 vols. 8vo. Smith, Elder, & Co. 1860.

   A new edition, entirely recast, with important additions, in 3 vols. crown 8vo, is in readiness for the press.

2. Old English Jest-Books, 1525-1639. Edited with Introductions and Notes. Facsimiles. 3 vols. 12mo. 1864.

3. Remains of the Early Popular Poetry of England. With Introductions and Notes. 4 vols. 12mo. Woodcuts. 1864-66.

4. Handbook to the Early Popular, Poetical, and Dramatic Literature of Great Britain. Demy 8vo. 1867. Pp. 714 in two columns.

5. Bibliographical Collections and Notes. 1867-76. Medium 8vo. 1876.

   This volume comprises a full description of about 6000 Early English books from the books themselves. It is a sequel and companion to No. 4. See also Nos. 6-9 infrâ.

   "There never was a more accurate and painstaking bibliographer than Mr. Hazlitt, nor is there any bibliography of English literature which can compete with his works. I have found from personal experience that they are absolutely necessary to the English collector."—BERNARD QUARITCH.

   These and the three following items are the result of more than thirty years' continuous labour, during which the author doubtless has had submitted to his notice more English book-rarities than any other bibliophile in Europe. There are several thousand of articles in this work, which may be regarded as an appendix to the bibliographical account of Early English Literature.

6. Bibliographical Collections and Notes. SECOND SERIES. 1876-82. Medium 8vo. 1882.

   Uniform with First Series. About 10,000 titles on the same principle as before.

   "I very respectfully, yet with cordial pleasure, submit to such sections of the educated and reading English community in the United Queendom, the States of America, and elsewhere, as feel an interest in that early literature, which ought to be dear to the entire English-speaking race, a Third and Final Series of my Bibliographical Collections and Notes, forming (with my Handbook), the fourth volume of my achievement in this province of research.

   "The objection to the multiplication of alphabets by the sectional treatment, which I have adopted since the appearance of the Handbook in 1867, is a very valid objection indeed from the point of view of the consulter. But as this has been, and remains, a labour of love, and as the cost of production was a grave problem, I simply had no alternative; and to the suggestion which I offered in a prior Introduction, that, after all, these serial volumes might be regarded in the same light as so many catalogues of public or private collections, I have now the gratifying announcement to add, that a complete Index to the Handbook and the three Series of Collections and Notes is in preparation by Mr. Gray of Cambridge, who has most generously volunteered to do the work, and will form a separate volume, to be published by Mr. Quaritch when it is completed.

   "I have incorporated (generally with additions and corrections) in my volumes by degrees nearly the whole of the Bibliotheca Anglo-Poetica, Corser's Collectanea (excepting, of course, the lengthy and elaborate extracts and annotations), the British Museum Catalogue of Early English Books to 1640, the Typographical Antiquities of Ames, Herbert, and Dibdin, the Chatsworth, Huth, Ashburnham, and other private cabinets, and the various publications of Haslewood, Park, Utterston, and Collier.

   "Since the Second Series came from the press in 1882, several large private libraries have been dispersed under the hammer, and all the articles previously overlooked by me have been duly taken up into my pages. I may enumerate, for example's sake, the celebrated collections of the Earl of Jersey, the Earl of Gosford, Mr. James Crossley of Manchester, Mr. Payne Collier, the Duke of Marlborough, Mr. Hartley, Mr. N. P. Simes of Horsham, Sir Richard Colt Hoare, Mr. Michael Wodhull, Sir Thomas Phillips of Middle-Hill, the Rev. J. Fuller Russell, Mr. Henry Pyne, and Professor Solly."—Preface to Second Series.

"Mr. W. C. Hazlitt's second series of Bibliographical Collections and Notes (Quaritch) is the result of many years' searches among rare books, tracts, ballads, and broadsides by a man whose speciality is bibliography, and who has thus produced a volume of high value. If any one will read through the fifty-four closely-printed columns relating to Charles I., or the ten and a half columns given to 'London' from 1541 to 1794, and recollect that these are only a supplement to twelve columns in Hazlitt's Handbook and five and a half in his first Collections, he will get an idea of the work involved in this book. Other like entries are 'James I.,' 'Ireland,' 'France,' 'England,' 'Elizabeth,' 'Scotland' (which has twenty-one and a half columns), and so on. As to the curiosity and rarity of the works that Mr. Hazlitt has catalogued, any one who has been for even twenty or thirty years among old books will acknowledge that the strangers to him are far more numerous than the acquaintances and friends. This second series of Collections will add to Mr. Hazlitt's well-earned reputation as a bibliographer, and should be in every real library through the English-speaking world. The only thing we desiderate in it is more of his welcome marks and names, B.M., Britwell, Lambeth, &c., to show where all the books approaching rarity are. The service that these have done in Mr. Hazlitt's former books to editors for the Early-English Text, New Shakespere, Spenser, Hunterian, and other societies, has been so great that we hope he will always say where he has seen the rare books that he makes entries of."—Academy, August 26, 1882.

7. Bibliographical Collections and Notes. A Third and Final Series. 1886. 8vo.

Uniform with the First and Second Series. This volume contains upwards of 3000 Articles.

"Mr. Hazlitt has done much work during the last thirty years, and some of it has been bitterly attacked; but we venture to think that the debt of gratitude which all students of Old English literature owe to him for his bibliographical collections must remain in the most enduring opinion of his labours. We would bid all readers who care for the books of the past read the practical, manly, and comprehensive introduction prefixed to this volume. It forms one of the best pleas for the study of English literature which we know; and coming close upon the important speech of Mr. John Morley, it takes up a phase of the subject not yet adequately recognised. The academic side has been put by Mr. Morley, the practical by Mr. Hazlitt: 'The England in which we dwell is one with the England which lies behind us. So far as the period which I comprehend goes, it is one country and one race; and I do not think that we should precipitately and unkindly spurn the literature which our foregoers left to us and to our descendants for ever, because it may at first sight strike us as irrelevant to our present wants and feelings. . . . The considerer of modern opinions and customs is too little addicted to retrospection. He seems to be too shy of profiting on the one hand by the counsels or suggestions, on the other by the mistakes of the men who have crossed the unrepassable line, who have dealt with the topics and problems with which we have to deal.' These are stirring and sensible words, and we should much like to see them more widely distributed than the limited issue of this volume will allow.

"It is impossible, in a short notice such as we can only give, to do justice to the contents of this work. The titles of every book or tract are given in full, having been transcribed by Mr. Hazlitt himself; and there is often appended to the entry interesting information about the condition, history, and, above all things, the present locale of the book. Such work as this requires labour, and skill, and knowledge of no ordinary kind. Now that Mr. Bradshaw is dead, there are few indeed who possess these qualities, and apparently only one who puts them at the service of his fellows. It has been often said of late that the bibliographer and indexer are more needed than the book-writer; and if this is true, as we are inclined to think it, Mr. Hazlitt's work must, in relation to the age in which it is produced, be awarded a very high place. It enables us to ascertain what has been done in English literature, and therefore ought to enable us to do our work so much the better. Almost all departments of study are now occupied as much with a reconsideration of old facts as with the discovery of new, and for this purpose such books as Mr. Hazlitt's are indispensable. We are happy to say that a competent Cambridge student has undertaken to compile an index to the four volumes of bibliography issued by Mr. Hazlitt, and that this will be published by Mr. Quaritch as soon as it is ready."—The Antiquary, April 1887.

8. Bibliographical Collections and Notes. Supplements to the Third and Final Series. 2 vols. Medium 8vo. 1889–92.

9. A General Index to Hazlitt's Bibliographical Works (1867–89). By G. J. Gray. Medium 8vo. 1889. [In the Press.]

This invaluable volume will assist the student and collector in using the several volumes of which the Series now consists, and will enable him to ascertain at a glance whether and where a book, tract, or broadside is to be found. It is a labour which Mr. Gray has undertaken con amore, and reflects the highest honour on his industry, discernment, and literary zeal.

 All these books are now on sale by Mr. Quaritch.

10. Memoirs of William Hazlitt. With Portions of his Correspondence. Portraits after miniatures by John Hazlitt. 2 vols. 8vo. 1867.

During the last twenty years the author has been indefatigable in collecting additional information for the Life of Hazlitt, 1867, in correcting errors, and in securing all the unpublished letters which have come into the market, some of great interest, with a view to a new and improved edition.

SELECTIONS FROM PRESS OPINIONS:—

"A perusal of Mr. W. Carew Hazlitt's book is calculated to make both parents and boys thankful that they live in an age of comparative enlightenment. The work does not profess to be an exhaustive one, the object being 'to trace the sources and rise of our educational system, and to present a general view of the principles on which the groundwork of this system was laid.' In pursuing this plan the writer has succeeded in producing a book, which, though dealing with what some readers may consider rather a dry subject, is full of curious and interesting information, judiciously arranged and pleasantly conveyed."—Morning Post.

"This book contains a great deal of very curious information. After an introductory chapter on the system of teaching in the good old times when holidays were unknown and stick ointment laid the basis of all culture, an account is given of the various vocabularies, glossaries, and colloquies in use in mediæval times. Some interesting and amusing details are also given of sixteenth century schoolbooks, and Mr. Hazlitt sketches the scholastic work done by Erasmus, Colet, Linacre, Lily, Ruddiman, and others, and gives us an insight into the methods followed in such schools as St. Paul's and the Merchant Taylors' Institution. . . . One of the most interesting chapters in the volume is that on female education."—Glasgow Herald.

". . . Mr. Hazlitt knows his subject, and he also knows how to write. No small praise."—St. Stephen's Review.

". . . Some of Mr. Hazlitt's pages are occupied with the humorous side of school life; and as he tells a story well, these portions of the book come upon one with singular pleasure."—Antiquary.

"Mr. Hazlitt has evidently a favourite speciality in school-books. He has collected them, we should judge, with a good deal of zeal, and has acquired a really considerable amount of knowledge about them," &c.—Spectator.

36. A Little Book for Men and Women about Life and Death. 12mo. Reeves & Turner. 1891.

"Mr. Hazlitt believes that the only chance of shaking off the ignorance in which spiritual pastors help to keep the nation is to be found in the absolute secularisation of education."—Daily Telegraph.

"This neat little volume discusses very ably and fairly several important questions."—Newcastle Daily Chronicle.

"This is a well-written attack on a few of the irrational doctrines, folly, and trumpery, that go by the name of religion."—Christian Life.

"Mr. Hazlitt sees that to overthrow the superstition which selects and endows incompetence, there must be a general lift in the quality and efficiency of education all round; and he sketches a plan or curriculum which does credit to his breadth of view."—National Reformer.

"Mr. Hazlitt is an original thinker. On the whole, he expresses himself moderately, temperately, and without needless offence. Those whose views Mr. Hazlitt voices are a growing number, and will read his little book with sympathy."—Birmingham Daily Post.

37. Tales and Legends of National Origin or Widely Current in England from Early Times. With Critical Introductions. 8vo. 1891.

38. A Survey of the Livery Companies of the City of London. With a General Introduction and Preface, and numerous Illustrations.

39. A Manual for the Collector and Amateur of Old English Plays. Sm. 4to. Only 250 copies printed.
